

Public Health Boot Camp: Fostering Future HIV Community Leaders

An Intensive Public Health Training Institute

What is the Public Health Boot Camp?

Public Health Boot Camp is an intensive one-week certificate program provided by the AIDS Foundation of Chicago and the DePaul University Master of Public Health Program. The intensive training program is designed to enhance AIDS organizational leaders' professional knowledge of core public health concepts. Program participants will be selected through a competitive application process described below.

Why is this intensive program being offered?

The goal of the training program is to improve the quality and effectiveness of HIV prevention services in metropolitan Chicago by exposing AIDS organizational leaders to core concepts of public health science, theory, and practice. The Boot Camp will strive to provide participants with the necessary tools to apply what they have learned and implement it to actual HIV/AIDS programmatic activities.

When and where will the Public Health Boot Camp take place?

The Boot Camp will begin at 2:00 p.m. with classes beginning promptly at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday, July 19, 2009 and will conclude Friday evening, July 24, 2009 with a recognition reception. All program activities will occur in downtown Chicago. Accepted and confirmed program participants will be required to accept residential lodging (single-room occupancy) at Club Quarters, 111 W. Adams for the full duration of the program without exception. In addition, participants will be engaged in program-related activities throughout the day and evening for the full duration of the weeklong program at the DePaul Center, 5 E. Jackson.

How many applicants will be accepted to participate in the Boot Camp?

Boot Camp organizers anticipate accepting a total of 10 to 12 applicants to participate in the certificate program, which will be highly competitive.

Who should consider applying to participate in the Public Health Boot Camp?

Chicago-area AIDS organizational leaders with direct oversight of HIV prevention activities and a minimum of 2-years work experience in HIV/AIDS services are strongly encouraged to apply. Applicants must demonstrate that they have the ability to use what they learn in a specific HIV community and/or agency endeavor. Individuals who have earned master's level or higher degrees in public health are not eligible for this program. Applicants must also be able to participate fully in the program from July 19-24, 2009 and agree to accept residential lodging (single-room occupancy) at Club Quarters, 111 W. Adams. Accepted applicants must confirm their placement in the program with a non-refundable fee of $250, the full cost of the program for participants, no later than Friday, May 15, 2009. No fee, however, is required with the initial application. Other requirements are listed on the application form, which is due no later than 4:00 p.m. on Friday, March 20, 2009.

How is the Boot Camp curriculum structured?

Boot Camp participants will receive didactic learning sessions and engage in group discussions and team activities aimed at increasing familiarity with core principles of public health, bio-statistics, epidemiology, social and behavioral change theories, evaluation and research methodologies, and communication skills, and other topics.

Who is presenting at the Boot Camp?

Participants will work with local and national experts in public health. Other guest speakers will join the faculty in leading guest lectures and discussions.
